NABSE will convene its 3rd African American Male Youth Leadership Summit (AAMYLS) on July 13–17, 2011 on the campus of Prairie View A & M University (PVAMU) in Prairie View, TX. Approximately 120 African American young males from all over North American in grades 8–10 will convene for five days to engage in the following:

- Interactive presentations on critical leadership, etiquette, communication and life skills
- Exploration of the personal, social, emotional and spiritual conditions that inhibit and/or enhance each individual young person's journey towards adulthood
- Creative activities that will help to build self-esteem, encourage positive communication between peers and provide the tools for conflict resolution
- Introduce the young men to unique and engaging approaches to learning as it relates to the 3Rs
- Comprehensive Prairie View A&M University Tour that exposes students to a variety of different career options that are available to them

Students who are interested in attending the Summit must be accompanied by a chaperone from a NABSE Affiliate. The cost for the Summit is $300 for students and chaperones and it covers the on-campus lodging, meals, program materials, and any off-site activity.
